

The adventures of Captain Kirk "special dragons" P3 and end

The 750 dragon eggs hatched in the Professor's aircraft and escaped around Anubis' palace. Anubis fled with his ship and headed for the constellation of Orion.

-Oh, great Anubis, here we are in the sidereal space, we will very soon move to hyperspace, to join Orion.

-Well, where is Belphegor?

Oh, big thing, a space convoy is approaching our screens!

-Yes I do, but my cat Belphegor, where is he?

Oh, big thing, the cargo ship is heading straight for us!

-Belphegor, kitty kitty kitty.

Oh, big thing, you know, the cargo ship's gonna skewer us!

-General alert, impending impact!

-Maximum alert, return to your security posts.

Damn Zeus, it's a Dlanite cargo ship, we're going to be pulverized!

Very far on earth, a cat mewing of terror, its master will not return to earth for 5000 years and scattered in more than 100000 pieces.

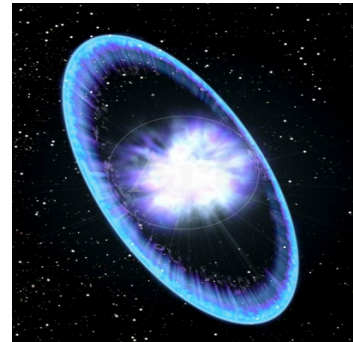

The Professor and Edgard escaped from the palace, narrowly avoiding the growing dragons by sight.

-This is the Edgard disaster, Ark's worlds off the Covenant will become unbearable.

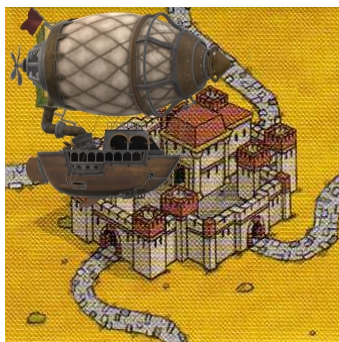

-What if we call a predator to get rid of it?

-It's a rich idea, Edgard, but please stop playing ball in the cockpit... but Edgard is not a ball it's an egg!

NO EDGARD !

NO !

The rest of the wonderful stories in a future issue.
