

The adventures of Captain Kirk – (the corridors of time) Part 2

The next day in the tower of the great Inquisitor in the City.
 - We found the Grimoire in the Grand Master scriptorium! Biorg is waiting for you to take you to him.

-Hello Biorg, is this place safe?
 - Yes, Grand Master, you would have to be a bald mouse or a spider to find your way through this labyrinth.
 - Well, drive me.

-Tonight, when I return from the procession to Fondfroide Abbey, we will begin the incantations to explore the corridors of time.
 - Good Grand Master, I will prepare the room.

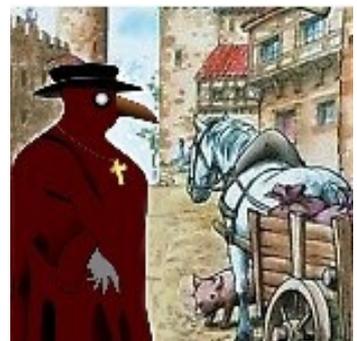

In the city and the surrounding area the festivities have begun, jugglers, bear shows and other jugglers make a thousand facetious faces to the delighted public.

Batman and Spiderman were stationed not far from the rue du Grand Inquisiteur, so they can watch the entrance to its large tower.

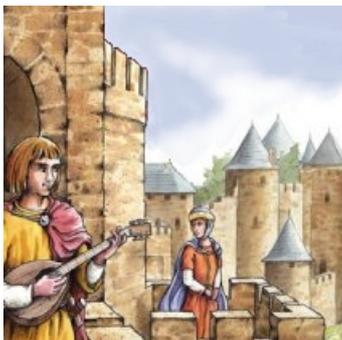

And suddenly, a doctor monk coming out of a narrow alley goes to the harmful building, then enters through a small discreet door, into a house located just next door.

- We spotted a doctor monk and we know where they enter their big tower, Professor.
 - Well tonight you will go there, the Princess will give you a sign from the top of the ramparts when the access to the station is free. Be careful, these people are formidable. If they have the grimoire they will be ready for everyone.

- Percival, it's time to send the signal, the Professor's men are in front of the station.
 - Good Princess.

Outside the City, strange processions are forming and all are heading towards Fondfroide Abbey.

